Prohibition Budget Escapes
Axe in Paring Supply Bill

HOUSE COMMITTEE
CUTS BUDGETS BELOW
HOOVER'S FIGURES

SAME AMOUNT AS LAST YEAR IS RECOMMENDED FOR PROHIBITION DEPARTMENT

Washington, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Making prohibition enforcement an exception to the general government economy program, the House appropriations committee today reported an annual supply bill for the justice, state, labor and commerce departments.

Included in the justice department expenditures recommended was a

Washington, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Prohibition agents spent $134,342 purchasing liquor and "beverages" during the last fiscal year, according to testimony of Prohibition Director Woodcock before the House appropriations committee.

The testimony, taken many weeks ago, but released today when the committee reported the justice department appropriation bill, also revealed that the agents spent $46,223 for such things as "lunches, meals, rental of rooms," etc.

Federal prohibition enforcement activities during January resulted in a marked increase in arrests and seizures of automobiles and stills as compared with January 1931, the bureau considerably.

Federal arrest cases totaled 5,179, an increase of 15 per cent. Automobile seizures, numbering 863, increased 41 per cent, and still captures 10 per cent.

$11,369,500 item for the bureau of prohibition, the same amount allowed in this year's budget.

Following the precedent by other appropriation bills reported this session, the House committee slashed departmental expenditures considerably below President Hoover's budget recommendations.

A total appropriation of $125,713,818 for all expenses of the four departments is carried in the bill. This represents a decrease of more than $5,000,000 under the budget figure and is $14,000,000 under expenditures for the current fiscal year.

At the same time, the committee made public its hearings on the bill, which revealed that aside from the direct $11,000,000 appropriation for prohibition enforcement, the justice department will spend about 50 per cent of its other appropriations for criminal cases involving enforcement of the 18th Amendment.

Attorney General Mitchell also told the committee that the prohibition bureau had requested the budget to allow it more than $2,250,000 additional funds for next year, but that this had been denied. The added expenditure would have been used for 500 more prohibition agents.

The attorney general testified that "about 50 per cent" of the federal prisoners on June 30, 1931 were liquor law violators. He added that the total number received during the last fiscal year was 42,351, of which 28,801 were charged with violation of the prohibition laws.

Mitchell told the committee he was "not satisfied" with adequacy of prohibition enforcement.

Supreme Court Nominee Says Law Must Change With Times

Judge Benjamin Nathan Cardozo . . . the law is his life and work.

Cardoza Nominated To Succeed Justice Holmes

Washington, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Benjamin Nathan Cardozo, a judge who believes with Oliver Wendell Holmes that law must change with the times today was nominated by President Hoover to take Holmes place on the supreme court bench.

The nomination, a non-partisan one, was sent to the senate and is expected to be confirmed with little or no opposition.

Cardozo, a lean man of 61 with high forehead and piercing blue eyes, was approved widely by leaders of the legal profession and of the senate. His appointment constitutes a recognition by Mr. Hoover that his outstanding qualities and ability outweigh the fact that New York state already has two of the nine judges of the highest tribunal, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and Harlan Fiske Stone.

Cardozo, now chief justice of his state's highest court, the court of appeals, has served for 17 years on the state bench. He was elected and re-elected following his appointment by Governor Whitman with the support of both party organizations.

Cardozo's appointment insures the continuation of the evenly balanced division of the supreme court on vital social and economic questions.

His own writings and what others say of him both indicate that he is a leader of social and legal philosophy in the same manner as was Holmes. He is a native of New York City.

Last year Cardozo was awarded the Roosevelt medal for distinguished service in the development of public law, and the citation said: "His penetrating mind and unusual literary felicity have clarified for the legal world the function of the judge in shaping and developing the law." It also quoted former Governor Alfred E. Smith's comment that Cardozo "embodies every qualification consonant with the highest judicial ideals; a scholar of immeasurable attainments, a lawyer of unbounded legal erudition, the very embodiment of impartiality, fairness and justice."

Producers Dump Milk in Protest of Cut Prices

Houston, Texas, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Rather than sell their product for prices they considered too low, dairymen dumped 4,000 gallons of milk into Houston gutters.

The producers, enraged because Houston jobbers cut their prices to $2 the 100 pounds, emptied their milk cans in front of the Phenix Dairy. The producers receive a price of three and one-half cents a gallon, while Houston housewives are paying ten cents a quart for standard grades.

MOVEMENT TO PLACE
SMITH'S NAME IN N. D.
PRIMARY DIES TODAY

MAIL TODAY FAILS TO BRING ANY NEW CANDIDATES
INTO RACE

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—An abortive move to file the name of former governor Alfred E. Smith in the North Dakota presidential preference primary was dead today as the morning mail failed to bring any new candidates into the race.

The presidential race in this state included Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Governor William "Alfalfa Bill" Murray on the democratic ticket and former senator Joseph Irwin France, Maryland and General Jacob S. Coxey of Massillon, O., on the Republican slate.

Secretary of State Robert Byrne ruled that petitions which were placed in the mails on Saturday, the final date for filing, would be accepted. None was received today.

E. H. Stenvick of Minot said that he had a petition for Smith on the way from Minot on Saturday but that the courier had been delayed by a snow storm. Stenvick, however, did not mail his petition. Smith's sonnet to filing his name in the primary would have been necessary for its consideration.

Murray's petition was entered by wire before the deadline Saturday.

MURRAY FARMERS, MANY OF THEM FACING
STARVATION, SEEK STATE RELIEF FUNDS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Near starvation conditions in western Murray county require an $8,000 emergency appropriation for aid, Governor Floyd B. Olson and State Commissioner of Agriculture R. A. Trotter today told the state executive council.

The governor called an immediate emergency meeting of the council after Henry Lund, investigator for the

POPULAR PRESIDENT
GERMAN REPUBLIC TO
AGAIN BE CANDIDATE

PAUL VON HINDENBURG CON-
SENTS TO PLACING HIS NAME
BEFORE VOTERS

Berlin, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—President Paul Von Hindenburg, picturesque World War figure and popular in the Fatherland, today agreed to become a candidate for re-election to the presidency of the republic.

The decision of the aged soldier and statesman to run came soon after reports that another popular figure, Adolf Hitler, leader of the German fascists, had obtained German citizenship through appointment to a teaching post and also would be candidate.

Hindenburg said if he was not re-elected, he would be spared the reproach "of having deserted my post in the most difficult times."

The president issued the following declaration:

"After earnest consideration and full recognition of my responsibility for the fate of the Fatherland, I have resolved to place myself in the field for re-election. The fact that the request was not made by a single party but comes from the mass of the people convinces me that my candidacy is a duty."

Press reports said Premier Klagges of Brunswick had appointed Hitler a professor of practical pedagogics at Brunswick university, so that "the politician without a country" received German citizenship automatically.

Hitler lost his Austrian citizenship and could not run for president in Germany unless he became a German citizen.

department of agriculture made a preliminary report of conditions in the county.

The county auditor at Slayton last week asked that Olson authorize the expenditure of county funds to aid those suffering but was informed this could not be done. An investigator was sent to Murray county. His report today reported that:

1. Between 400 and 500 farmers have exhausted their feed supply and more than 5,000 milk cows will perish unless immediate relief is furnished.

2. Many farmers and their families are suffering from lack of food.

3. One home had only a loaf of bread for sustenance of a mother and three children.

4. A large number of cattle already are beyond relief, other cattle are lying on the ground too weak to rise.

The executive council immediately dispatched its secretary, William H. Lamson to the stricken area with instructions to report to the governor at his home tonight.

Lamson was told to purchase food in extreme cases. Olson said he would personally guarantee payment thereof. It developed at the meeting that although the county can care for persons in need, it cannot provide feed for livestock. Most of the cattle are mortgaged, it was said.

Coming Party Caucuses Spur
State Politicians to Action

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Political leaders of Minnesota's three major parties will prepare this week for state endorsing conventions next month which will be held just 10 days apart.

On March 9 the democrats will conduct a state convention at the St. Paul auditorium to elect delegates to the party's national convention in Detroit. It is expected that candidates for state offices will be endorsed at the same time.

Ten days later on March 19 the first of two republican conventions will convene for endorsing state candidates. The official call for this convention and for another on April 30

Fire Drives 150 From Waupaca Office Buildings

Waupaca, Wis., Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—A spectacular $50,000 fire drove several families from their lodgings last night. The fire started in the F. D. Mann dry goods store and spread to the post office, telephone exchange, telegraph office, a bakery and a department store.

Local firemen aided by companies from Scandinavia and Weyauwega, finally brought the fire under control after it had threatened destruction to an entire business block. Families living in apartments over the stores were driven from their homes and suffered loss of most of their belongings.

ACTION ON FEDERAL RESERVE MEASURE IS PUSHED BY GARDNER

LIMITED DEBATE TO THREE HOURS ON NEW AGENCY TO RID U. S. OF DEPRESSION

Washington, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Working at war time speed, the House took up today at 2 p. m., the Steagall-Glass federal reserve liberalization bill under drastic procedure desired to bring its passage after three hours of debate.

Defense of this administration measure to provide additional credit and more currency was in the hands of a democrat, Chairman Steagall, Alabama, of the banking and currency committee, while a republican, Representative McFadden, Pennsylvania, frequent critic of President Hoover's financial policies, led the opposition.

No amendments were permitted under the extraordinary procedure invoked by Speaker Garner and the House was forced to take the bill just as framed by its banking and currency committee.

The government today marshalled nearly 18 billions in actual and potential resources to fight the depression. This vast sum, far greater than any man has ever seen, is or will be in the hands of six agencies.

The agencies already at work or proposed to beat back the wolf from the national door include:

1. Reconstruction finance corporation—$2,000,000,000. This gigantic peace-time enterprise, dwarfing even the credit machinery of the World War is preparing to throw great blocks of credit into the breach defended by those shock troops of finance, railroads and banks. It also will assist farmers and business men.

2. Home loan mortgage banks—$500,000,000. This project, not yet enacted, is designed to reinforce depression-weary credit in the field of residential real estate.

3. Federal land banks—$2,800,000,000. These banks, an integral part of the government structure, are proving a boon in assisting the long-suffering farmer.

4. Farm Loan Board—$500,000,000. A permanent institution, the board is lending money to farmers from its revolving fund as fast as the cash comes back from other loans.

Greatest Move in 18 Years

5. Glass-Steagall bill to broaden federal reserve credit had enable new currency—$11,000,000,000. This bill, the biggest piece of financial legislation in 18 years, is designed to ease bank credit, with consequent relief to the small borrower. Carrying also a provision for $1,000,000,000 in new currency if needed, it is expected to be enacted in a week or 10 days. It is expected to free $10,000,000,000 in credit, plus the potential billion in currency to offset hoarding if needed.

6. Postal savings system—$650,000,000. Resources of the system are being constantly poured into commercial channels with consequent beneficial effects on trade.

HOUSE FAVORABLE TO REVOLVING FUND FOR LOANS TO FARMERS

MONEY WOULD BE AVAILABLE TO LOCAL AGRICULTURAL CREDIT UNITS

Washington, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—The House agriculture committee today reported favorably on the Jones' bill establishing a $10,000,000 revolving fund which will be used to advance loans to local agricultural credit corporations.

Designed to increase the loaning power of the intermediate credit banks, the measure provides that the department of agriculture may advance up to 75 per cent of the par value of capital stock of the farm organizations.

Organizations with capital stock of $10,000 or more are eligible for the advances if their financial stability meets with the approval of the secretary of agriculture.

Appropriations for the revolving fund would be secured from various unexpended balances remaining from last year's appropriations.

Shanghai, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—Reverberating guns rocked Shanghai tonight as Japanese troops renewed their bombardment of the Chapei native quarter and at the fort of Woosung after a 36-hour cessation of hostilities.

Chinese Hold Position
Inspired Chinese troops, apparently united under Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, met the attack with heavy artillery fire and began landing shells in Japanese defense areas.

Airplanes joined with destroyers in attacking the forts, although the Japanese previously had withdrawn aerial warfare in response to international pressure.

The fort bombardment was conducted with eight Japanese troop transports waiting to pass up the river toward Shanghai. The ships later landed the soldiers, and it was reported other transports are due tomorrow.

Five large tanks and ten baby tanks rumbled through the streets of the international settlement in the wake of Japanese front line troops as the fighting men headed for the new battle of Chapei.

Plan Night Attack
Japanese naval commanders claimed that the main body of 6,400 Chinese at Woosung had begun retreating after the heavy shelling. The Chinese reported they were still holding the forts at nightfall.

Although the expected ultimatum from the Japanese has not been issued, military preparations made it evident that they intended to start a determined offensive Wednesday, of which tonight's attack apparently was a forerunner.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—The state department announced today that Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham at Shanghai, cooperating with the British consul general had protested to the Japanese consul general the landing of Japanese troops in the international settlement of Shanghai last Saturday.

Meanwhile Secretary Stimson awaited a complete report on the beating of American Consul Arthur Ringwald last Wednesday. It is considered likely a protest to Tokyo will be made on this incident. Cunningham said that Ringwald and Mrs. L. Young, an American citizen, "reported to be of the Chinese race," were beaten by Japanese civilian volunteers as they were searching for the woman's young daughter.

R. E. Wyett Returns

From Spring Convention

R. E. Wyett, manager of the local Penney store, returned to this city yesterday after spending a week at St. Paul, where he attended the annual spring convention of the J. C. Penney Company.

Earl C. Sams, president of the J. C. Penney company, sounded the inspirational keynote of the organization when he stated that all business was again in the pioneering period, according to a statement made by Wyett.

"Throughout the entire year, prices will be notably lower, on the majority of items, than they have been for years, due largely to the manner in which the company has adapted itself to the new merchandising conditions prevailing throughout the country and to the new price standards which have been established."

"The majority of managers are anticipating a steady increase in the rate of retail buying and orders placed for early delivery on a wide range of items indicate complete confidence in the future," says Wyett.

During the convention Sams stressed the need for individual initiative in all lines of work and stated that the future was in the hands of men who built constructively.

FARMERS' INCOME DROPS 38 PER CENT DURING JANUARY

Farmers' cash income in the Ninth Federal Reserve district was 38 per cent smaller in January than in the corresponding month last year, a summary released by the Federal Reserve bank said today.

Decreases occurred in income from wheat, flax, potatoes and hogs, and increases occurred in the income from dairy products and rye. The decline of the farmers' income was estimated from the figures of seven important items, the report said.

Prices of bread wheat, durum wheat, barley and rye were higher in January than a year ago, the summary said, but prices of all other important farm products in the northwest were lower. The greatest decreases occurred in the prices of livestock the summary said.

The summary said that the volume of business in the district decreased, also, according to custom between December and January, and in the latter month was smaller than in January a year ago. Bank deposits were 2 per cent smaller, and country bank clearing index of 26 per cent smaller than the month of January last year.

Freight and car loadings, showed a 26 per cent decrease, according to the report, for the first three weeks of January as compared to the corresponding period of the year before. Other decreases noted by the summary occurred in electric power consumption, postal receipts, building permits and contracts, flour and linseed products shipments, grain marketings, market receipts of cattle, calves and sheep and department sales.

DECREASE IN BANK DEBITS REVEALED IN RESERVE REPORT

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 15.—(U.P.)—The total bank debits for the Ninth Federal Reserve district were $227,493 less in January 1932 than in the same month in 1931, a table released by the Federal Reserve bank at Minneapolis, revealed today.

Banks debits for January 1932 were $635,401 as compared with $862,569 for January 1931. The Ninth Federal Reserve district contains the six states, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Michigan, Wisconsin and Montana.

Bank debits are used by the Federal Reserve banks as an indication of business activity. For the most part they are checks against depositors' accounts and thus represent payments. The bank debits totals included in these figures include the accounts of individuals, firms, corporations, and government accounts.

The total bank debits for some of the principal cities in this state and the Dakotas as compared with January 1931 are as follows:

	Jan. 1932	Jan. 1931
Duluth	$ 32,642	$ 63,621

DR. HUBIN TO GIVE BRANDON SPEAKER MANTOUX TEST HERE FATHERS AND SONS AGAIN WEDNESDAY BANQUET ON WED.

DISAPPOINTED THAT ONLY 150
PUPILS TOOK ADVANTAGE OF TEST TODAY

Dr. E. G. Hubin of the Deerwood Sanatorium gave Mantoux test to about 150 high school students this morning and to most of the teachers. He was disappointed that so small a proportion of the students responded to this opportunity for free service especially as the Minnesota Public Health Association offers free X-Ray service to those whose reactions are positive.

Dr. Hubin stated that he is coming to the high school this Wednesday at 9 o'clock and at that time will give the test again. If any parents have decided that they would like to have their children given the test they may send a signed statement by the student that they wish it to be done. If this is handed in before Wednesday morning these additional students will be given the Mantoux test, Miss Eula Michael, city and school nurse said.

Father and sons, big brothers and little brothers will gather at the festal board in the Methodist church Wednesday at 6:30 o'clock for the fourth annual banquet and program.

Preparations have been completed and the program announced for the event.

Rev. C. M. Brandon, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will deliver the address of the evening. The subject of his theme has not been announced.

A toast to the boys will be paid by Ben Evans, William Cochran will respond.

Also included on the program is music by the Brainerd string quartet directed by Gerald Schrader. The assembly will also harmonize in mass chorus as another interesting event.

Women's Gym Class meets tonight in the High School gym at 7:00 o'clock. All interested are requested to be present.

STATE TO TAKE BIDS ON TWO PAVING JOBS AND FIVE BRIDGES

Bids on two paving projects and five bridges will be opened at the offices of the Minnesota Highway department Feb. 16, Commissioner C. M. Eabcock announces. These jobs have been added to a list of grading projects announced last week, on which bids will be received the same date.

The paving projects were among those advertised in December, on which bids were rejected. One is an extension of the paving on T. H. No. 5, from the junction of T. H. No. 16 near Mankato, to Amboy. The other is on No. 18, from Zimmerman to Milaca. With paving built in 1931, it will complete the hard-surfacing of this route from Elk River to Onamia. Detailed information follows:

Paving
T. H. No. 5—From Amboy to Jet. T. H. No. 16, 19.3 miles, 230,785 sq. yds. concrete and 2,900 cu. yds. excavation.

T. H. No. 18—From Zimmerman to Milaca, 21.6 miles, 253,143 sq. yds. concrete.

Bridges
T. H. No. 4—At Big Falls, bridge No. 5170A, steel truss, length 120 feet. At Big Falls, bridge No. 5170B, widening job. Seven miles north of Big Falls, bridge No. 5201, length 30 feet. T. H. No. 7—Near Cobden, bridge No. 5182, steel truss, length 60 feet. One mile west of Sleepy Eye, bridge No. 4411, length 35 feet.

Dunwoody Students Visit at Deerwood

FAWCETT CHARGES RECEIVERSHIP SUIT IS UNFAIR TO HIM

CLAIMS WIFE INSTITUTED ACTION IN RETALIATION FOR HIS DIVORCE ACTION

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 15.—(UP)—Captain W. H. Fawcett, Minneapolis publisher, today charged that his wife's petition for a receiver for the Fawcett Publications, Inc., is retaliation for divorce action he has started against her.

In an answer filed today in Minneapolis, Fawcett charged that his wife was "out to ruin" him and that she had lost "all sense of proportion and fair play."

Fawcett denied that she had ever owned any stock in the corporation but admitted that he had held one share in trust for her.

Mrs. Fawcett asked for a receiver for the firm charging that she owned one share of stock and had never received any dividends.

Eight States Built More Pavement Than Minnesota in 1931

Minnesota made a better showing in highway paving in 1931 than in former years, in comparison of other states. Figures published in American Highways show only eight states which paved a larger mileage during the year. They were New York, 960; Louisiana, 900; Illinois, 727; South Carolina, 620; Georgia, 575; Texas, 561; Iowa, 561; and Wisconsin 441. Minnesota paved 435 miles, a little more than Missouri with 423 or Michigan with 404. Figures on the total paved mileage by states have not yet been compiled.

ARRANGE SPECIAL SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT FOR MARCH 11

NOW SCIENCE TELLS WHY BRAN IS SO GOOD FOR HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Has "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Healthful Iron

By using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, millions of people have overcome common constipation, and the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

New laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN supplies two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

Further experiments prove ALL-BRAN provides twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Eat this delicious cereal and avoid pills and drugs. They cause artificial action, and often lead to harmful habits.

Try two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily—sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN has a delicious, nut-sweet flavor. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in making fluffy bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A 90 million dollar reason

A SECTION OF A LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO WAREHOUSE WHERE TOBACCOS ARE STORED TO AGE AND MELLOW

why Chesterfields are Better!

Just think what this means for Chesterfield smokers. It means that the larger part of 90 million dollars is invested in Domestic and Turkish tobaccos that are being properly aged in Nature's way, and cured so as to make them sweeter and milder.

CHESTERFIELD tobacco is packed in wooden casks, each containing about 1,000 pounds, and stored for two years in modern, up-to-date warehouses.

These warehouses, if placed end-to-end, would be about four miles in length. From floor to ceiling they are filled with these casks of fine tobacco, ageing in Nature's slow but sure way.

It takes a lot of money to make a good cigarette—money to buy good tobaccos and money to age them properly.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder, and taste better...there's a 90 million dollar reason why! Just try them!

STOP THE RACKET---

Do you realize—just as a typical illustration—that the department of commerce is going to spend $45,000,000 this year—in sending out millions upon millions of circulars, books, letters, etc., by franked mail, the great majority of which is thrown into the waste basket?

Have you any idea of the cost of preparing these millions of government publications? Can you visualize the tax-exempt governmental army—29,000 in the department of commerce alone—living on the taxes you and your employer pay?

These are just a few of the significant facts outlined by Phil S. Hanna, editor of The Chicago Journal of Commerce, in an editorial introduced "Stop the Racket Before the Racket Stops You." In his fight against governmental waste, Hanna minces no words and, as a matter of fact, comes straight to the point.

The Journal of Commerce writer spares no thoughts in exposing the government graft or "racket" as he prefers to call it. We say graft because in quoting Hanna we find some Missouri legislators voting for a postoffice down in Tennessee just to secure the support of the Tennessee legislators in the construction of a new Kansas City postoffice. As Hanna continues, eventually the Kansas City postoffice will be built through an enormous governmental appropriation but it also will prompt the appropriation of millions of dollars for similar projects which are not needed just because legislators lined up against any possible reduction in governmental expenditures.

Of course, a legislator's constituents are nearest his heart. He will do all in his power to get what they demand. And, it is only natural, but a few outspoken congressmen would find a warm spot in the hearts of their districts if they did not pay so much heed to these outrageous demands.

In citing the waste in the commerce department, Hanna continues by saying that the waste is being rapidly duplicated by the department of agriculture. "Similar armies of tax-exempt parasites are growing in other Washington bureaus day by day," Hanna declares, and rightly, too.

Hanna places the cure in the hands of Mr. Workingman. Surplus employees in governmental service prompt these unnecessary taxes, this unwarranted competition of government in private business, as Hanna declares.

"Will you, whom congress regards as not interested in government, take action and throw the boarder out?" Hanna asks. He concludes by saying that not until the government balances its national budget by cutting down needless expenses—that day and not until then—will the depression wane.

Hanna leaves you with this cryptic fact: "The fewer jobs in Washington the more jobs at home."

A "MODERN" CANDIDATE---

Flower boxes for fire hydrants, a piccolo-player for chief of police, a "department of worry" for taxpayers, wrestling champions for opening street car windows and a host of other planks in the platform of Victor Aloysius Meyers, a former Little Falls man who has gone "political" in Seattle, have added unusual zest to the coming city election there and has won for the former Minnesota band leader nation-wide recognition as a "dark horse" candidate.

Of course, Meyers' platform is absurd but he is having a lot of fun out of it while his rival aspirants to the office of chief executive of Seattle, looking askance at the interest and enthusiasm being manifest in Meyers, feel that it has been anything but something to shout about in glee.

And, Meyers, if he permits his name to be placed before the voters, will get a lot of votes. It would be rather an awkward performance but not overly surprising should Meyers cut a larger figure in the Seattle political pie than most people realize such a campaign as his can create. Stranger things have happened than to elect a candidate of this type even though Meyers cannot be serious about it. It would not be surprising to see his name right up in the running "cutting the other candidates' throats," so to speak. Voters are like that in this day of political bickering and novelty.

But, all in all, Meyers is having his little laugh and the people of Seattle are laughing with him. The orchestra leader is tooting his own horn but should such an impossible thing come to pass as his election, it would be interesting to see whether or not his note takes on a rather sour tune. Discord is always the spice of politics so Meyers should not go out of his element—that is, granting that his orchestra is as colorful as its director.

RETAIN HOTALING---

That the conservation commission is seeking to oust H. C. Hotaling as head of the Ten Thousand Lakes Association is the text of rumors current over the state. To replace Hotaling now would be to rob Minnesota of one of its most valuable working assets. It would deprive Minnesota of its excellent counsel in administrative affairs and would reflect greatly upon actions of the conservation commission who, if they are responsible for the move, should come under fire as being purely political bait.

Hotaling has proved his efficiency in his work. Under his leadership, many thousands of dollars of valuable publicity heralded Minnesota's resources, particularly the tourist phase.

Should Hotaling be desirous of the change, it seems that in recognition of his great and efficient services every effort should be made to keep him at the helm of the association.

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, who works by day as a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, lives with her mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her elder sister, MYRA, and her 12-year-old brother, MIKE. Ellen's dead father, younger son in a titled English family, left a comfortable fortune to provide for his wife and children. Irresponsible Molly Rossiter soon went through the fortune and since then the support of the family has devolved upon her two daughters. Molly foolishly spends the precious rent money to buy unnecessary clothes for Mike. At her mother's suggestion Ellen decides to work at night as a dance hall hostess until the sum is made up. She goes to Dreamland and interviews JACOB SALOMON who offers her a job on condition that she supply her own evening dress. She has no evening dress. Bitterly disappointed, she breaks a store rule and telephones the news to her mother. STEVEN BARCLAY, owner of the department store, sees her in the telephone booth and asks her to come to his office. Ellen is sure he intends to discharge her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER III

ELLEN had her feet planted firmly in her small world by the time she had seated herself. She had seen other girls pay the swift penalty for some inconsequential fault. She was prepared to pay it herself in dignity and in pride. She thought dimly that the important thing was to maintain her own courage.

Never before had she exchanged a word with her employer. In her six years of service she had seen him no more than half a dozen times. Steven Barclay spent only two or three months a year in the store which bore his name; the other months he wandered restlessly about Europe adding to his collection of jewels. But Ellen had assumed, as her working mates had assumed, that he was responsible for the strictness of the store, the countless, fretting rules, the rigid discipline. She had youthfully hated him for that.

"I hope," he began almost apologetically, "that you won't think I'm interfering in something which does not concern me. I am, of course. But perhaps you'll forgive me when I tell you that I can not bear to see an employee—to see someone so young as you are—in such trouble without attempting to learn if there is something I can do. Some way that I can help."

Ellen had been prepared for dismissal. She was not prepared for sympathy. For a moment revulsion of feeling made her actually dizzy. Her heart was suffocating her and she felt she could hardly breathe. But she forced herself to answer him.

"It's—it's nothing important, she managed at length.

"I was afraid you'd say that. It probably would be nothing to me. Obviously it's not that to you. But I do think it's nothing that can't be solved. Won't you tell me?"

At any other time Ellen would have withdrawn into the fastnesses of the Rossiter pride. Just then she had such an overwhelming need for sympathy, such an overwhelming need for the advice of someone older, someone responsible, that the whole story was out before she could check the rush of words. Myra and Bert; her mother and her disastrous shopping tours; Mike, delightful baby Mike, who should have his chance; the Brooklyn apartment and the countless, harassing worries that beset two girls trying to balance on their slim shoulders the burden of a family.

all that and more she poured forth. She stopped at last in consternation. What had she said, lured by this man's intent interest? What had possessed her?

"So you see it's really nothing," she concluded stiffly. "Only the lack of an evening dress. I'm afraid I've drawn a dreadful picture. It's not a fair or truthful one. We have lots of fun. We love each other. Anyone would say that an evening dress wasn't important."

"I wasn't going to say that," he repeated. "I was going to tell you something about myself, something that might help you, or I hope it will. Are you bored?"

Ellen quickly assured him she was not. She felt again and unwillingly his quiet spell, felt his lack of condescension, his simple assumption that they were equals and, as equals, could solve her problem. But how? What possible help could she accept from him?

"Don't think of me as a rich man," he was saying. "Think of me as I was at your age, trying to support a young wife and a young baby on $15 a week in the days when $15 a week meant more than it does now but not enough more. My wife wanted a dress too. She wanted a pink dress with ribbons. She looked a little like you, had that same quick way of turning her head. And they were wearing pink and ribbons when she wanted the dress."

ELLEN forgot Jenny Elkins in the basement. She had not known that Barclay had been poor. It was hard to imagine that distinguished, graying man who wore clothes so carefully cut, so indicative of wealth, in such a role. But she could visualize clearly the young wife who had wanted a pink dress with pink ribbons.

"No one offered to give her that dress," Barclay continued. "If anyone had I'm sure she both would have refused it. We were proud, you understand—proud as you are proud. I was going to become a rich man—going to buy her dozens upon dozens of dresses." He hesitated and added almost roughly, "She was dead—dead with my young son before she ever had a pink dress."

Ellen gave a distressed little cry. "We had fun too," he told her. "Much the same sort of fun you and your brother, Mike, and your sister, Myra, are having now. But if we'd only been less stiff-necked, less afraid of the motives of other people, how much easier it would have been."

"Afraid?"

The heavy Rossiter brows rose in twin peaks. "Young people haven't changed much in spite of all the shouting," Barclay observed obliquely. "They're still afraid, aren't they, to accept a favor to do a greater favor? They're just as suspicious, just as conventional and every bit as proud. You, I'm sure, would never allow me to give you a lift. You wouldn't allow me, would you, to give you one dress from a store which has hundreds of them? You'd rather hug your troubles to yourself, worry yourself sick, wouldn't you? You'd rather be selfish."

"I'm afraid I would," Ellen admitted. Barclay's smile was rueful. He made one more attempt. "You know, of course, that you are depriving me of a great pleasure. Are you sure you have that right?"

Ellen felt confused. Was it possible that she was too stiff-necked, as he had accused her of being, too conventional, too careful entirely? Then she decided, so quickly that there was almost no pause before she answered, that even if she were it was too late to change.

"I'm sure I have that right," she said. Her tone was resolute but she softened it with a glance of shy merriment.

The man considered a moment. His face cleared and when he smiled so many years dropped away from him that Ellen felt he must look almost as he had looked to his young wife. She had thought him handsome and distinguished before but separated from her by miles of spiritual distance, separated from her by many years and by great wealth. For the first time she saw him not as her employer but as a man.

"Well, if you won't, you won't!" he said decisively. "It may be that young girls should be suspicious of older men bearing gifts—I don't know. But I've thought of a compromise. Surely you can't refuse to borrow a dress."

"Borrow a dress?"

"Certainly. Don't look so astounded. We seldom sell the gowns that the models wear. You'll borrow one of them and return it when your engagement is over."

TAKING her consent for granted, he turned at once to ring a bell. Ellen had neither the heart nor the wish to demur. Indeed, she felt her spirits rising. By so simple an act as ringing a bell, Steven Barclay had settled the problem of where the Rossiter rent was to come from. With the help of a borrowed dress it was coming from Dreamland.

A few minutes later a saleswoman arrived with a lovely cargo of evening dresses. Steven Barclay had slipped away. Ellen was alone in the office. She appreciated the department store owner's tact and his wisdom. Barclay's was notoriously a hotbed of gossip. The tiniest incident that involved Steven Barclay was always of abnormal interest to his employees. Fortunately the saleswoman who brought the gowns was placidly incurious.

The next 15 minutes were sheer heaven for Ellen. She had never owned an evening gown, evening gowns being one of the items invariably missing from Aunt Myra's boxes. She had not known it would be such fun to select a gown only because it made her beautiful.

She stood before a long mirror and held up before herself, one by one, gowns that she was convinced were the loveliest in the world. It was pure bliss to see that, although line and color seemed almost to change her personality as they did change her appearance, not even the trying burnt orange or the deep petunia could drown the triumphant flush of her clear skin or deaden her bright hair.

When she came upon the gown of ivory tulle she knew she had found her dress. It did not make her an ingenue. It did not make her a duchess. It did not make her mysterious. It only made her Ellen Rossiter, a girl of 20, clear-eyed and clear-skinned, a girl with slender hands and slender feet, beautiful, but more than that, a girl who was genuine and secure in her own personality.

There were no ornaments, no frills on Ellen's dress. It was only white tulle falling to the floor. But it had been made in France by a great couturier who called his creation "Jeune Fille."

Barclay returned after Ellen had seen the other gowns carried away. He glanced at the ivory tulle over her arm. He hesitated and then said:

"I'm glad you selected that one."

As Ellen looked into his eyes she saw with a little shock, half of fear and half of strange pride, that life was suddenly becoming exciting.

Thoughts for Lent

"His Raiment Was White as the Light"

(Read Matt. 17:1-8)

Peter, James and John were the first born who saw Christ, the Light, transfigured in visible form so that the very garment that He wore was radiant with a supernatural brightness. Since then, others, too, have gone with Him into a high mountain apart; and have received a vision whose splendor should never afterward be forgotten. We may share it; only provided that we are willing to accept the discipline of a spiritual mountain-climb. We believe that Christ is calling us to come. We are prepared for the ascent. We will join the company of those who have beheld their Master transfigured.

Prayer: O Thou Who art the Redeemer of our lives, Whom we would follow wherever Thou dost go, let us ascend the high mountain of experience where Thou art eternally transfigured. Strengthen our hearts and empower our spirits for climbing, we pray. Give swiftness to our feet and determination to our hearts, that we may stand with all Thy disciples in joyful wonder as Thou art made visible to us in the full glory of Thy Perfection. Amen.

CLOQUET MAN HEADS ARROWHEAD ASS'N. WORKERS' GROUP

Hanford Cox of Cloquet will head a committee of the Minnesota Arrowhead Association appointed today to combat the impending danger to forest and mill workers of Minnesota and neighboring lake states caused by foreign imports of wood pulp. Other members of the committee appointed by President Alfred Hoel are Fred D. Vibert of Duluth, Jacob L. Pete of Ely, member of the St. Louis County board of commissioners and a director of the Arrowhead association, J. H. Martin, President of the West Duluth Commercial Club, Wm. E. McEwen, of Duluth, chairman of the State Conservation commission, Geo. M. Vivian, commander of David Wilson Post of the American Legion in Duluth, and E. A. Silberstein, prominent in Duluth. The committee will be known as the committee of Forest Products and Payroll Protection.

According to information received by the Arrowhead Association from E. W. Tinker, U. S. regional forester at Milwaukee, the logging of pulpwood and the operations of pulp mills in the lake states will inevitably be forced to discontinue unless something is done to offset the effect of depreciated foreign currencies which makes it possible to land Swedish pulp on the eastern seaboard at $30.00 a ton while the very lowest costs of production in the lake states is $35 per ton. An emergency tariff duty is being urged.

Of major concern is the unemployment situation that will be vastly aggravated in the northern counties of Minnesota by discontinuance of existing payrolls.

Champion Trapper

Miss Julia Magee, of Rocky Ridge, O., has been proclaimed the champion trapper of North America. She has received an award of $1000 cash and a gold medal as her reward for capturing and properly preserving the finest fur taken in North America during the 1929-30 season. She is ranked the world's foremost authority on muskrat trapping.

In England and Wales, the cost of educating a pupil in the elementary schools has risen in the last few years from $23.75 to $65 a year.

FALLS ON TUESDAY NIGHT'S PROGRAM; WADENA ON FRIDAY

VICTORIES ARE IMPORTANT TO BRAINERD'S PLACING IN TOURNAMENT PAIRING

A crippled Brainerd high school team will clash with Little Falls here tomorrow night in the first of the three games before the district tournament. Two other games during the regular playing season remain for Brainerd, Wadena playing here Friday night and the Warriors meet Crosby-Ironton on the latter's floor, Friday, Feb. 26.

Two of Brainerd's regulars may not see action until the Crosby game. Bob Wykle, guard, has returned to school after a siege of influenza but is in no physical condition to stand a hard game. Elmer Foster's injured ankle still bothers him and it is doubtful if he will be used in either the Falls or Wadena games as Coach Bill Dammann will take no chances on him being disabled again so near the tournament.

Two games will be played tomorrow night. In the preliminary the Brainerd juniors will clash with the Pine River juniors at 7 p. m. The headline event will get underway at 8 p. m. Feakes of Pequot will referee.

In the present district cage standing, Crosby-Ironton has undisputed possession of first place and is assured the favored position in the pairing for the district tournament.

Brainerd and Staples are tied for second place with three defeats and five wins. Little Falls is in fourth place, Atkin fifth and Wadena sixth.

Allowing Staples no defeats in its remaining games Brainerd must win two of the three games on its schedule to place in the opposite bracket to Crosby-Ironton for the tournament.

The two games this week will give Dammann ample opportunity to play his reserve power to determine his district tournament selection.

The Brainerd Warriors returned Sunday from their road trip north. They lost to Bemidji Friday night, 17-6 in an hectic game which found them off color and won Saturday afternoon's game with Cass Lake, 31-14.

Crosby-Ironton Downs Staples High, 33 to 13

The Staples basketball team met defeat at Crosby Friday by the Crosby-Ironton team, the game ending with a 33 to 13 score in favor of Crosby-Ironton. The range team had an easy lead at the end of the first half, the score being 11-2 in their favor. Staples rallied however, in the third quarter, with a gain of nine points to their opponents' seven, but slumped in the concluding quarter of play to give the C-I team a big lead.

HAMLIN QUILLS TOMMIES' THREAT IN STATE CIRCUIT

St. Paul Minn., Feb. 15—(U.P.)—Hamline University's basketball team was over one of the biggest obstacles in its path toward the Minnesota state conference basketball title today.

By defeating St. Thomas, 31 to 20, Saturday night, the Methodists pushed their midway rivals down the standings column into a tie with Concordia with two defeats. The Hamline team is undefeated and a loss Saturday night would have forced them into a tie with the Tommies.

In other games Saturday the score was: St. John's 35, Augsburg 20, Macalester 37, Jamestown Teachers 34 (non-conference). Hamline's only game this week will be when they entertain St. John's on the Methodist's home floor Saturday night. The Johnnies tonight will play at Gustavus Adolphus. On Tuesday Augsburg will play at Macalester.

On Friday, St. Olaf will play at St. John's and Gustavus Adolphus will play at Augsburg. Other games for Saturday night beside the Hamline contest include Macalester at St. Thomas and St. Olaf at Concordia in Moorhead.

The conference standings are:

	W	L	PTC.
Hamline	7	0	1.000
St. Thomas	5	2	.714
Concordia	5	2	.714
St. Olaf	2	4	.333
Gustavus	2	4	.333
Augsburg	3	6	.333
Macalester	2	5	.286
St. John's	1	4	.200

INDEPENDENTS TAKE TWO; TRIM ST. CLOUD AND DETROIT LAKES

Two wild melees that found the Brainerd Merchants great in staging second half rallies brought victories to the locals in a doubleheader cage card here Saturday night.

The Merchants hopped from a 40-23 win over the Detroit Lake squad in the first and then after a furious battle nosed out St. Cloud's independent basketekers in the last 40 seconds of play in the second fracas by 23-22.

Both games resulted in what apparently was grudge basketball. Plenty of action, disputes, and good basketball were dished out in both encounters.

While the first game presented an interesting exhibition from a standpoint of Brainerd coming back in the second half so severely trounce their opponents, the highlight event came in the second encounter with the St. Cloud boys.

The scrappy quintet from the Granite City comprised a good share of former St. Cloud Cathedral floor stars. Some of the men a few years ago went to the national Catholic tournament at Chicago, losing in the finals.

The final cantata came as a frenzied conclusion to an already thrilling battle. Trailing 19-12 at the end of the third stanza the Brainerd Merchants fought like demons, cut down the lead and Fitzharris popped in the winning field goal as the timekeeper held the whistle in his mouth waiting for the final second. When only one minute remained to be played the St. Cloud men attempted a stall game but lost the ball as Brainerd reverted from their zone defense to man to man to gain possession of the ball. Brainerd held the ball in its own territory the last 40 seconds of play while St. Cloud tried frantically to recover.

The fans got their money's worth and took occasion to hand Smuda, guard, and pivot man on the offense a new nickname. After Smuda objected strenuously to Referee Peterson's decision, being particularly peeved when the "ref" called him on several occasions for traveling as he dribbled the ball down the floor without being blocked and because the fans did not altogether favor his particular style of basketball, they pinned on him the name "What a Man." So "What a Man" Smuda it was.

Paine went scoring mad in the first game. He shot nine baskets through the meshes for field goals. And Lorie Swanson didn't do so bad either. Put into the game in Paine's position, Paine changing to center, Swanson found the hoop for five field goals and four free throws in the second half.

Detroit Lakes grabbed what they thought a safe lead in the first half but they failed to account for the last half fighting spirit of the Merchants, the Johnas to all visiting independent and professional cage teams this season, even including the much touted Harlem Globe Trotters. Detroit Lakes had an advantage of 15-9 at the half but at the close of the third quarter Brainerd had grabbed a 25-15 lead. McKnight was forced out on personals in the final quarter which disrupted the visitors and gave Brainerd the chance to steady down to consistent basket shooting.

The second game started off slow with each team sparring for a thrust. The Brainerd boys held a scant one basket lead at the quarter and fell back in the second quarter to trail 10-6 at the half. Johnny Gabiou, coach and blockade for the Merchants told the home boys a few things about lagging during the intermission at the half which apparently had a great effect on the home boys. The Brainerd boys crashed into the second half to win. They found the going rather tough in the third quarter and enter-

Four Teams to Gather at Mineral Wells, Texas

Mineral Wells, Texas, Feb. 15—(U.P.)—This Spa resort will serve as a training camp for four baseball teams this spring. The Chicago White Sox will be here for the week beginning Feb. 25. The Fort Worth Texas league club will follow for another seven days, beginning March 1. The St. Paul American Association nine will train here from March 12 to 26 and the House of David aggregation from March 23 until April 6.

REIF TOPS SCORERS WITH IOWA FORWARD IN SECOND RUNG

Chicago, Feb. 15—(U.P.)—Joe Reiff, accurate shooting forward on Northwestern's basketball team, continued today to lead the Big Ten individual scoring race by a 15 point margin over his nearest competitor, Moffitt, Iowa sophomore.

Reiff made 11 points Saturday night in the game which Northwestern lost to Iowa, to raise his total for eight games to 78 points. Moffitt scored eight in the same game, giving him second place with 63 points in seven games.

Johnny Wooden, Purdue's All-American guard who holds third place with Joe Hoffer, Ohio State captain, has the best average—10.4 points in five games.

The leaders:

Player	G	Fg	Pt.	Tp
Reiff, Northwestern	8	30	18	78
Moffitt, Iowa	7	24	15	63
Wooden, Purdue	5	17	18	52
Hoffer, Ohio State	7	22	8	52
Liche, Minnesota	7	21	6	48
Daniels, Michigan	6	18	12	48
Eddy, Purdue	5	17	13	47
Stephenson, Chicago	6	15	16	46

ed the final quarter trailing by three field goals and a free throw. The final quarter provided a bruising scrap. The stellar guard work of Marshall and Gabiou and the driving in of Haultala can well be put down as among the reasons for Brainerd winning.

In both games Brainerd played determined basketball and because of their sensational comebacks and their improved style of offense plays deserved their victories.

The games provided an opportunity for comparison of the value of zone defense as against man to man. Both visiting squads used the open style of defense whereas Brainerd stuck to its zone.

Approximately 350 fans witnessed the two games. The small crowd brought a debit in the purse of the local team.

Manager Carol Guin has been burning up the wires in an attempt to get the Harlem Globe Trotters for a return game. It would be a profitable as well as a thrilling clash for the Brainerd team.

CHANCES OF CLEAR TITLE FOR ANY FIVE DIMMED BY LOSSES

Chicago, Feb. 15—(U.P.)—Title and near-champion claimants in Big Ten basketball roused today to face their most arduous week of competition since the season opened.

Nine games, four of them tonight, are booked with Northwestern conference champions upset Saturday night 30 to 25 by Iowa, meeting Purdue in a crucial test next. Saturday Minnesota and Michigan, other hopefuls, play twice this week.

Chances of a clear title for any contender were dimmed in Saturday night's games which revived hopes of some for at least a share in the championship. Six teams—Northwestern, Purdue, Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois—still are in the running at the half way mark.

The Wildcats' defeat, which was Iowa's second triumph of the season, ended a run of seven successive victories, several by one-point margins. Northwestern, now virtually tied with Purdue since each has lost one game, still must play the Boilermakers twice and meet Michigan and Ohio State on foreign floors.

Purdue, however, has seven games left, the first against Northwestern at Lafayette Saturday night. The Boilermakers whipped Chicago Saturday night 40-27.

Minnesota was handed its second defeat—and pushed out of second place—when Indiana, hopelessly out of the title running, won 27-22 in their second victory of the season. Michigan, defeated 14-13 on Saturday night by Michigan State, practically is tied with the Gophers each having suffered two losses. To keep near the top the Wolverines must win over the improved Iowa team tonight, while Minnesota faces Illinois.

Ohio State made it two straight over Illinois by winning 23-26 on the home floor. The Buckeyes have one of their toughest assignments tonight when they meet Purdue at Lafayette. The Boilermakers required an overtime period to beat Ohio State 33-33 at Columbus a week ago.

Indiana is a slight favorite to head Wisconsin its fifth defeat tonight, which would stamp the present season as one of the Badgers' worst years.

Saturday Night's Results:
Iowa 30, Northwestern 25.
Indiana 27, Minnesota 22.
Purdue 40, Chicago 27.
Ohio State 29, Illinois 26.
Michigan State 14, Michigan 13.

ANNOUNCE CHANGE IN GRID RULES TO REMOVE MOST DANGEROUS PLAYS

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 15. — (U.P.) — Changes that remove from football several of its most thrilling but most dangerous plays were announced today by the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, after a three-day meeting at Dartmouth college.

E. K. Hall, chairman, said the drastic new rules represented ways which had been found for "very materially reducing" the football deaths and injuries that increased so alarmingly last season. He termed them the most important in 25 years for making the game safer.

The rules call for:

1. Abolition of the flying tackle, and the flying block.

Lessening of massed interference on kick-off plays by compelling at least five players on the receiving team to line up within 15 yards of their opponents; and by permitting a choice of placement, punt, or drop kick on the kick-off to allow a higher boot.

3. Return of a player into the game at any time, irrespective of the period, thus making the rule for substitutions identical with that of professional hockey.

4. Halting of play the instant any part of the ball carrier's body excepting hands or feet touch the ground, regardless of whether or not an opponent is near.

5. Forbidding of opponents on defense to strike opponent on head, neck or face with hand, wrist, forearm, or elbow.

6. Soft padding over thigh guards, shin guards, and braces.

Penalty for violation of the rule forbidding use of hands on an opponent's head is disqualification and loss of half the distance to the opponent's goal line. The penalty for flying tackle or block is five yards or in event of it being made at a forward passer—five yards from the spot where struck.

There were many accusations that the flying wedge after kick-off was responsible for the great number of injuries, and some deaths, last year.

Olympic Games Close But Evens Continue

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 15—(U.P.)—The third Olympic winter games, officially closed more than 36 hours ago amid much speech making, flag waving and horn tooting, still were in progress today with the four-man bob-sled championship to be decided.

The title was to have been decided yesterday but the bobsers nearly went on a strike when their times for two heats over the snow-deadened run were from fourteen to forty-three seconds better than par for the course. The mutiny left the officials with nothing to do but run the third and fourth heats today.

In the merry month of May, these smiling youngsters will become Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hack of Sacramento, Calif. Right now they're just plain Stanley Hack, Chicago Cubs' rookie infielder, and Miss Dorothy Weissel, ranking women's tennis star. If Hack starts in to end the Cubs' infield worries, you'll understand.
